Your Virtual Working Environment Dictates Your Employees' Productivity

Whether you're in sales, training, management or product development being able to easily connect with other team members is critical. But even more critical is having the ability to bring solutions and ideas to the table in a way that closely mirrors the traditional in person experience. This requires a multi-dimensional environment with tools designed to naturally work together. These tools encourage engagement and allow multiple people to simultaneously share all types of information.

Jigsaw Interactive's specialized technology provides virtual training/learning environments, virtual selling capabilities, virtual team projects, virtual software labs, role play rooms and virtual conference rooms.
